Bonds forged in the crucible of Special Operations are unbreakable. Former Navy SEAL Tom Wolf and retired Green Beret Sam McFadden are members of that brotherhood, having served together in the Philippines. Leaving America's elite military fraternity for civilian life, McFadden and his wife have put down deep roots in San Diego. Navy SEAL Tom Wolf, a modern-day ronin grappling with a future that does not include his beloved military, joins the McFaddens for an extended stay. The deadly confrontation binds them together as only a near-death experience can.
