Book six in the Alliance Series Sometimes going back is all you can do... Angel Carter doesn't know why he kidnapped a criminal and fled the planet. He just knows that he's confused and the man responsible is one Frank Morgan. His ship crashes leaving them both stranded on Earth, a planet that is supposed to be free of people. A perfect hide out-or it was until he's greeted by the natives. Frank wanted to be free of a life of crime and made a deal to turn in his boss when things went crazy. He was injured in the process and woke up when the ship he was on crashed. He didn't remember much-only now he's in a jail cell with the very man he was supposed to be working with. Will the past bring them their future?
