Her name was Stella, Living in an orphanage in Hincesti. Forced out of the orphanage to live on the her own at sixteen, she suffered brutality, forced to sell her body to survive until finally succumbing to AIDS. Described as the "engine of the sex industry," Moldova sentences more "stellas" every June when the girls are forced out of the orphanages all over Moldova to be come victims in slave traffic. In Stella's Sisters, Read the testimonies of five girls who found light in that pit of darkness, being saved from a hope existence by a mand and his ministry, Philip Cameron and Stella's Voice.
