You have only one first time; may as well make it something to write home about. Until Rio happened, Aleks had always been under the impression that he was perfectly contented with his comfortable, predictable London life. But an afternoon at Farme is all it takes for everything to change. That's where he meets Jay, the energetic young carioca who charms him out of his routine and into a carnival adventure he won't soon forget—if he can just manage to remember what happened before his girlfriend arrives to bail him out... GP takes a salacious splash along that infamous stretch of Ipanema Beach—Farme de Amoedo—where gringos and locals spend their days (and nights) criss-crossing the lines between gay and straight, attraction and exploitation, seduction and saudade.
