From the valley of the Connecticut Mountains comes the story of a troubled woman desperate to unravel the mysteries behind her father's death and her mother's mental illness. Alaina Parker is faced with many obstacles--body image, broken relationships, and the battle within her own tormented mind. Alaina receives the comfort she so desires from a surprising source. But is he the answer or the problem? With her life unraveling and self-esteem plummeting, Alaina must revisit her past and put an end to the internal voices of doubt.

Deception, duplicity, and a secret so explosive it could easily push her over the edge. Will Alaina succumb to her dark shadows or will she find peace under the shadow of God's wings?
